2. One-Page Departmental Briefing Handout (For Faculty & Chairs)

Purpose

Distributed to CSPH Department Chairs (Epidemiology, HSMP, CBH, Biostatistics, EOH) and Program Directors to explain why this initiative is crucial for their graduate trainees and how it integrates into existing seminar slots.

Content Structure

1. The Emerging Need: 15.1% of university students report experiencing image-based sexual abuse involving digital alterations (Flynn et al., 2024); health sciences trainees face unique reporting barriers due to academic power dynamics (Begeny et al., 2023).
2. Value to the Department: Satisfies annual Title IX/VAWA primary prevention mandates; enhances psychological safety in research teams; prepares graduate research assistants (GRAs) to navigate federal grant compliance (NIH/NSF harassment rules).
3. Low-Burden Delivery Options:
    - Option A: Attend the campus-wide open hybrid series in November 2026 / February 2027.
    - Option B: Host a customized 45-minute guest presentation during an existing departmental seminar or lab meeting.

4. Endorsement Quote:

> "Public health scholars are at the forefront of health equity. Equipping our graduate students to recognize and interrupt technology-facilitated harassment ensures our research teams remain safe, supportive, and scientifically rigorous."
> — Mars Cruz, MPH, CHES, Office of Equity
