Description of Job

Division Description

The Information Technology Services (ITS) Division provides information systems and computer support for employees, customers of the Department of State, and therefore the people of Colorado. Much of the work completed by the division can be done remotely, contributing to the positive work-life balance of its employees. The Colorado Department of State is unique from many state agencies in that we are a smaller agency with an in-house ITS division, as a result our employees maintain greater collective impact over the work product of the Department.

As one of the few state agencies with a fully in-house ITS Division, the Colorado Department of State provides a unique environment where technology leadership directly influences statewide services and supports multiple critical systems for the State of Colorado.

Unit Description

This specific work unit (Web Team) in the ITS Division is responsible for:

- Reviewing and publishing website content.
- Website design and management.
- Overseeing accessibility for ITS systems including internal and externally accessible systems managed by ITS for the Department.
- Providing updated information on accessibility standards and guidelines (e.g., WCAG 2.1 Levels A & AA, ADA) to assist all divisions with meeting accessibility standards.
- Providing guidance for other divisions and staff members on how they can meet accessibility standards when drafting or providing content for external and internal use.
- Supporting DevOps and coordination across teams including development, infrastructure, quality assurance, database, web, and cybersecurity.

Illustration of key duties:

As the Web and Accessibility Manager, you will be the valued leader of the Web Team, responsible in ensuring the Department's compliance with accessibility standards. You will be part of a department that continues to be recognized as a leader, both in Colorado and nationally, in multiple areas.

In this role you will:

- Supervise the Web Team.
- Ensure the Department’s websites, applications, and other externally and internally facing content releases meet current web standards and are designed to provide the best user experience.
- Ensure that the Department website complies with standards and guidelines such as WCAG 2.1 Levels A & AA.
- Conduct comprehensive accessibility audits of websites, web applications, intranets, documents, and other digital properties and remediate issues.
- Develop and oversee the implementation of remediation plans to address identified accessibility issues, ensuring timely and effective resolution.
- Provide website development and maintenance of static pages.
- Perform dynamic web work.
- Create and enforce web standards.
- Provide guidance for other divisions and staff members on how they can meet accessibility standards when drafting or providing content for external and internal use.

Position must maintain confidentiality of all confidential and personal identifying information, personnel information, and any other confidential or proprietary information, as well as comply with all State and Department policies regarding professional conduct and professional practices.

- Travel will be required to fulfill the duties of the position, for professional development, or as requested by supervisor to assist with other duties for unit.
- Must be a Colorado resident at the time of application.
- The Department of State does not offer sponsored Visa for employment purposes.

Completing the Application

Applications will be reviewed by a Human Resources Specialist to determine if you meet the minimum qualifications for the position. Your application should specifically address your specialized experience, work products, accomplishments, etc. as they relate to the position duties and minimum and preferred qualifications.

- The minimum qualifications listed in the announcement are NOT optional.
- Cover letters and resumes will NOT be accepted in lieu of the official State of Colorado application form.
- Cover letters and resumes may be attached to the application as supplemental information.

If it is determined that you meet the minimum qualifications, your application may also be used as part of the comparative analysis process to identify a top group for further consideration. The comparative analysis may consist of application reviews, answers to supplemental questions, review of submitted work samples, phone screens, structured interviews, and any other method determined to be valuable in identifying the right candidate.

Appeal Rights

An applicant who has been removed from an employment list or removed from consideration during the selection process may request a review by the State Personnel Director.

As an applicant directly affected by the results of the selection or comparative analysis process, you may file a written appeal with the State Personnel Director.

Review of the completed, signed and submitted appeal will be timely on the basis of written material submitted by you, using the official appeal form signed by you or your representative. This form must be completed and delivered to the State Personnel Board by email at dpa_state.personnelboard@state.co.us within ten (10) calendar days from your receipt of notice or acknowledgement of the Department’s action.

For further information on the Board Rules, you can refer to 4 Colorado Code of Regulations (CCR) 801-1, State Personnel Board Rules and Personnel Director's Administrative Procedures, Chapter 8, Resolution of Appeals and Disputes, at spb.colorado.gov/board-rules.
